A Narrow Escape.

That might have ended in a disastrous accident several days ago was saved by the goodness of Mrs. Fred McKeen of Gardiner, who happened to be in control of her automobile as it was slowed by a large truck. Her car left the road, and she drove a wheel into the ditch. Her husband, who was in the car, was unhurt, but in the face. A passing car took him to the Kingston City Hospital where his wound was dressed. Mrs. McKeen went to the hospital at the time Mr. and Mrs. Wood of Gardiner, who were on their way to the hospital, saw the car and stop after the McKeens and send them to the hospital to receive treatment.

CHARITY BOARD ASKS FOR $35,000

Budget Adopted at Annual Meeting—Will Buy Automobile for Superintendent Edmonston—Number of Needed Repairs at City Home.

The Charity Commissioners at the annual meeting held Monday afternoon at the City Home adopted a budget for 1919 calling for an appropriation of $35,000, or just $8,500 more than the appropriation of this year. The big increase in the cost of clothing, coal and other necessities, and the need of making repairs to the City Home call for the additional appropriation. President Waterbury presided with Commissioners Osterhout, Coutant and Lang and Superintendent Edmonston present.

Needed Repairs.
It was brought out at the annual session that a new floor was needed in the dining room, a new lavatory in the superintendent's room, the roof on the main building needs repairs, and there is some painting and papering necessary in the building. The fences are also in need of repairs.

Will Buy An Auto.
The board decided to purchase an automobile for the use of Superintendent Edmonston, and to dispose of one of the horses. The board believe that more efficient work can be done by the superintendent with the use of an auto than with a horse and wagon. The matter of securing a car was left to a committee consisting of President Waterbury, Commissioner Lang and Superintendent Edmonston.

Look Over Property.
Before holding the annual session the board members were taken for a tour of the property, and found everything in apple pie order. Aside from the needed repairs mentioned the property is in good condition.

Knits For Red Cross.
Mrs. Anna Harris, an inmate of the woman's department, whose hands are paralyzed, and who on account of rheumatism is unable to leave the corridor on which her room is located, is still cheerful and happy and that afternoon was busy knitting her ninth scarf for the soldier boys. She does exceptionally fine knitting and sewing.

Visitors Welcome.
Some times time hangs heavy on the hands of the women inmates and they get lonesome, and it is at those times that visits are always gladly welcomed. Visitors are always welcomed at the City Home and residents who find time hang heavy on their hands at home could do no better and would be sure of a welcome if they paid a cheerful visit to the inmates of the City Home.

An Organ Welcome.
Now that the Christmas season is here a small organ for use in the women's living room would make an appropriate gift at the City Home. This organ could be used when religious and other services are held.

There is an organ in the dining room which was presented to the institution by a friend.

47th Annual Report.
Superintendent Edmonston submitted his annual report of the year, showing total receipts for the year of $22,774.14, with disbursements of $27,772.73, leaving a balance on hand December 4 of 71 cents.

The number of persons in the City Home on January 1, 1918, was 46, and the number received during the year was 23.

Of that number 38 were natives and 31 foreigners. There were 44 males and 25 females. The total number in the City Home during the year was 69.

Classification of all persons in City Home during year according to activity and cause of pauperism:

Nativity	Male	Female	Total
United States	22	16	38
Ireland	14	5	19
Germany	3	1	4
Canadian	1	2	3
Russia	1	1	2

46 Inmates in Home.
During the past year 19 were discharged from the City Home; 4 died, leaving 46 remaining in City Home at the present time.

Cost $4.51 Per Capita.
The average cost of maintenance per capita for year was $234.50. The average cost per week was $4.51.

Number of families cared for, 151.
Number of persons cared for, 441.
Of this number 400 were natives and 41 foreigners. There were 134 males and 207 females.

The number of persons in outside institutions is 28. Of this number 30 are children, blind, deaf and dumb, and epileptic, while 8 are tubercular.

Hospital Report.
The report of the Kingston City Hospital for the year showed 217 persons receiving medical and surgical aid. Of this number 153 were natives and 34 foreigners. There were 119 males and 98 females. The number of days treatment totalled 2,511.

... and at all 6 stands
in the Capitol building

A fact:

The 6 tobacco stands in the Capitol building at Washington are patronized mainly by the big business and professional men from all sections of the United States who are constantly coming into and passing out of Washington.

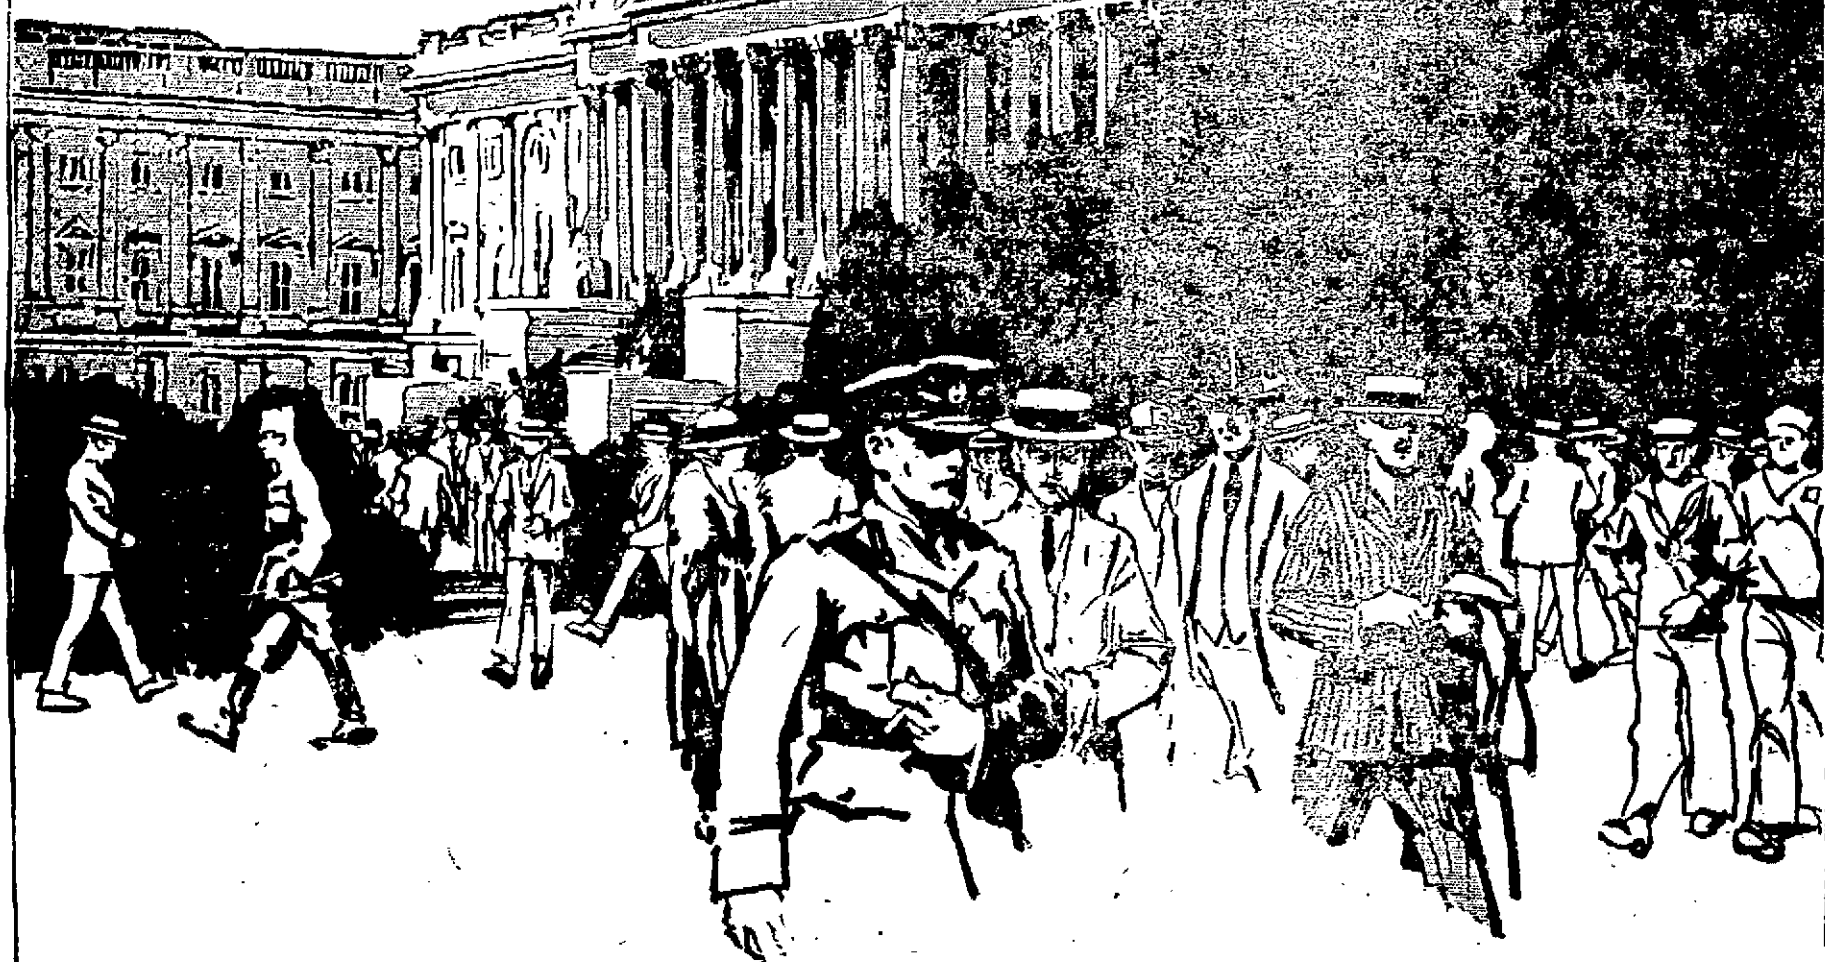

At each one of these stands more Fatimas are sold every day than any other cigarette, regardless of price—which seems to show that the preference for Fatima is really nation-wide.

Legitimate, Hygienic, Delicious

FATIMA

A Sensible Cigarette

Men who think straight and decide quickly like a cigarette that, besides pleasing their taste, leaves them feeling fit throughout the day.

Farm Cleared $801.01.

During the year there was raised on the farm food products amounting to $2,912.72, while the cost of operation was $2,109.68, showing a net gain on the farm of $804.04.

Deficit $6,272.15.
The financial report showed that with the liabilities outstanding there was a deficit of $6,272.15 at the close of the year's business.

Budget $35,000.
The budget as made up by the Charity Commissioners for 1919 calls for an appropriation of $35,000.

Board Adjourned.
After adopting the annual report, the board adjourned to the January meeting, when officers will be elected and appointments made.

Small Things Once Precious.
In the reign of Henry VIII, a needle was as valuable a thing as an English crown was written about the loss of one. In the reign of Queen Elizabeth, a pair of gloves were held to be a fitting gift for the sovereign. Henry IV of France, a poor and a French monarch, recommended one extravagance, which was commented upon by the court and noted down in Nolly's memoirs. He said as many handkerchiefs as he required when he had a cold in his head.

Frog's Appetite.
The common green frog has been discovered to possess an insatiable appetite for insects. This extraordinary appetite does not seem to be in the least checked by an occasional stink, which is mentioned upon several, no doubt deludes the good work of insects into a sense of security.

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE TOWN

The Stroller Hears You Can Find Sympathy in the Dictionary, and as far as Germany is concerned that is where it should be kept.

"Dash it all," muttered the busy barber, who is able to curse fluently in six languages, hurling a newspaper to the floor.

"What's up," asked the customer, dropping in the shop in time to hear the last part of the barber's monologue.

"It gives me a pain in the back," explained the barber incriminately, "every time I hear some one say anything about poor Germany, and that the Allies ought to be easy with her at the peace conference."

"Well, what is your idea in the matter?" queried the customer.

"In the first place," said the barber, "I don't believe that Germany should get off without some punishment for her crimes, and in the next place she should be made to pay for every cent of damage she has committed during the four long years of the war."

"But she has an enormous war debt that she has to pay her own people first," remarked the customer.

"In my opinion," continued the barber, "her war debt is the last that should be paid, and the Allies and the U. S. should take every penny of revenue in Germany and hold on to it until her debt to the world is paid."

"That sounds sensible enough," said the customer, but what do you think President Wilson's peace plan is on the subject?"

ber, "no one seems to know exactly." "Well, Germany seems to think that the only country she can expect sympathy from is the U. S.," said the customer.

"You can always find sympathy in the dictionary and as far as Germany is concerned, that is where it should be kept," replied the barber, "for if she had won the world war—good night."

Home, Sweet, Home.
Home is the one place in all this world where hearts are sure of each other. It is the place of confidence; it is the place where we tear off that mask of guarded and suspicious coldness which this world forces on us to wear in self-defense, and where we pour out the unreserved communications of soul and crushing hearts. It is the spot where expressions of tenderness rush out without any sense of awkwardness and without any dread of ridicule—exchange.

ARMENIANS LOYAL TO ALLIES

None of the Conquered Peoples Have Shown More Devotion to Cause of Liberty Than They.

It has been the Armenians who have been most constant in their loyalty to the allies, and eight months ago, from the city of Van, 130 of them went forth to take up positions which had been vacated by Russians.

After the Turks took Erzerum last February they swept on against the national armies of the Armenians and Georgians through to Tabriz in northwestern Persia, threatening the southern Caspian ports and wiping out an Armenian city. They met Narynd Oren Williams writes in Asia Magazine.

They boasted that they would keep on with them, but the Russian army, then nonexistent. The fight by the Armenians and Georgians, lacking allied support, became more hopeless. The Georgians bravely declared their independence last May; but hardly a month later 32 Georgian and Armenian delegates in Constantinople were utterly unable to do anything but accede to the Turkish demands that they withdraw their troops. It is evident that the Georgians are now completely dispirited.

Amendment Hard to Repeat.
A law of Congress can be quickly repealed or altered if it fails to work well, but a Constitutional amendment is practically beyond repeal. Though 36 states are required to put an amendment into the Constitution, it takes only 12 to keep it there, even against the will of all the others.

CHIC DANCE DRESS

Frock May Be Made of White Chiffon or Other Material.

Garment Is Trimmed Very Simply With Rows of Inch-Wide Glossy Ribbon in Color.

The little dance dress shown in the sketch may be made of white chiffon, or georgette or silk tissue, and it is trimmed very simply with rows of inch-wide glossy ribbon in color. Rainbow colors may be selected for the ribbon, two or three of these dainty pale shades being used with very good effect. If desired, the fabric of the gown may also be in color, and the dress be a genuine rainbow affair.

A foundation of sheer silk should be used for the dress, and it may be made a slipover by running an elastic in at the waistline. Two or three ribbon straps hold it in place over the shoulder, and a ribbon girdle with long ends circles the waist.

A dress of this kind is easy to make and may be very inexpensive. Spending a great deal of money on a dance or evening dress is never really necessary and at present it is poor taste. There will be few formal evening functions during the coming winter season, and the simple dances scheduled call for simple costume.

An all-over lace dress is always pretty, and many lace dresses are being featured for the coming season. Extreme simplicity is the rule in designing these frocks. Frequently the bodice is merely a wide giraffe of silk or satin topped by a frill or yoke of lace and with short lace sleeves. The skirt may be a single length of lace, or it may be formed of two or three lace flounces. A ribbon sash or giraffe finishes the dress.

Ribbon trimming is extremely popular this season. Plain bands of ribbon are used on frocks for both daytime and evening wear, and ribbon flowers, bows, etc., appear on innumerable evening dresses of sheer materials.

Very narrow "baby" ribbon is often knitted to form cuffs and collar for a street suit or frock, and the knitted ribbon sweater has been worn for months. During the summer it was merely a sweater, now it appears as a sleek vest to be worn underneath the suit jacket.

APRON DRAPERIES ARE SMART

Table is Really Only a Panel—Arrangement to Be Much in Evidence This Winter.

Apron draperies appear on so many tables that they may be considered a distinct fashion. They may be short or long and they may or may not have the slightest connection with the dress proper. It is as if one had really added an apron of brocade or marquisette or satin to the dress one is wearing.

Sometimes they begin at the neck and hang straight down well below the knee and are caught in only with the narrowest of string belts. Again a hem is folded back on the bottom of the drape, as in a woman's apron and finished with embroidery is added in contrast stitches.

In effect the table is really only a panel such as appeared on summer decks. As this arrangement is to be much in evidence this winter it is well to note that any sort of fabric can be used to develop it. With velvet and gold and silver brocades, with a heading of fur, are very smart. As to the color, the most of these being of the deep, rich colors of the Civil war, the apron drapes may begin at the collar as a waistcoat, spreading out at the waistline from which it falls free. Now and then the tunic drapes buttons in the back, or again it is set in quite apart from any relations to either back or front.

Test of True Friendship

Friendship which draws from the heart cannot be shown by adversity. It is the water that flows from the eye when the heart is broken.

HOW COURTESY HELPS IN BUILDING OF EVERY KIND OF BUSINESS.

—Here are a few words of wisdom which all young people in business would do well to take to heart.

Never forget to be affable. Every human being is entitled to courtesy. When one is abrupt in speech or inattentive, such conduct frequently promotes anger and resentment in others, leaves an unfavorable impression, and frequently interferes with one's business success.

In business matters listen to the opinion of your colleagues. It is not well to go into consultation with your own opinion positively fixed—no man is infallible in his judgment, and a sound judgment depends largely on knowledge. It is advisable when dealing with others to secure their opinion, sometimes before you express your own.

The most successful business men are those who, while having confidence in themselves, are able to appreciate the judgment of other intelligent men. A wise man will be influenced by the wisdom of someone else, as well as by his own reasoning.

DEITY HURRIED OVER WORK

Why West Coast of Japanese Island Is Rough and Dangerous Explained by Legend.

It is said in the Aina folklore that the island of Yezo, in Japan, was made by two deities, a male and a female, who were the deputies of the Creator. The female had the west coast allotted to her as her portion of the work and to the male deity were assigned the south and eastern parts. They vied with each other in their tasks to see which should get through first. But as the goddess was proceeding with her work she happened to meet the sister of Ojima and instead of attending to her duties, stopped to have a chat with her, as is the general custom among women when they meet.

While they were thus talking the time sped until the male deity, continuing to work away, nearly finished his portion. Looking up and seeing this, the female became very much surprised and frightened, and in order to hasten matters did her work hurriedly and in a slovenly manner. Hence it is that the west coast of Yezo is so rough and dangerous, says an exchange.

How Japan Will Help French.

The officers of the Japan Kindergarten union received two messages from the International Kindergarten Union of America. One is signed by the president of the union and their international committee on conservation and protection of children during the war, and another by the director of the American unit in France, Miss Fannibelle Curtis of New York.

These messages, printed in Japan, give the purpose and scope of the kindergarten unit. The plan was presented to the Japan Kindergarten union at its twelfth annual meeting held in Kuruzawa, and it was unanimously voted to ask the director of each kindergarten in the union to present to her children this scheme for helping needy children "overseas," before, or by Thanksgiving day, of this year. The sum thus collected will be sent to the kindergarten unit of the Red Cross.

Why U-Boats Are Not Sunk.

It is only when the naval airman catches a glimpse of a submarine, or even only that of a periscope, that he experiences a thrill which dispels the monotonous drudgery of the daily routine, says L. W. Neeser, in Scribner's Magazine. But the disappointment is apt to be frequent, for it is one thing to sight a submarine and quite another to reach a position directly overhead before her crew have noticed the warning hum of the seaplane's motor and have warily concealed their frail craft beneath the protecting ocean waves. A seaplane may make daily flights over the Mediterranean, in the Adriatic, across the Channel, or along the coast of the Bay of Biscay, for months and months at a time without ever sighting a single periscope.

How Barrel Hoops Aid Soldiers.

The latest barbed wire fence which the French have designed to check the advance of the enemy, employs a series of immense barrel hoops, on which barbed wire is strung. The hoops are securely fastened to a wooden fence form—six hoops to a section of fence—so that it is possible for each entanglement section to roll over and over like a string of lippeded pushballs joined together to form a solid unit.

When the sections are to be set up, they are dragged out under cover of darkness and so arranged that the natural land formations of the vicinity conceal them from advancing troops.

How Veldt Scars Were Healed.

Scars, or veldt scars, as they were called during the South African disturbances, are as prevalent in Palestine as they were in South Africa. Only one doctor there can cure them in quick time. He is a Coptic in Upper Egypt, and his treatment consisted in cutting the scar clean out of the affected part, after which he used an ointment of his own manufacture. The worst scars generally healed within two weeks.

Peculiar Form of Bread.

The Indians along the Columbia river make a kind of bread from a moss that grows on the spruce tree. This moss is prepared by placing it in a heap, sprinkling it with water and permitting it to ferment. Then it is rolled into balls as big as a man's head, and these are baked in a pan.

The Scrap Book

THE RECRUIT.

I used to wake up with a sticky tongue
And an eye that was dull and red,
And the songs that the early birds sang
I heard on my way to bed.
But now I jump with the reveille
And my eyes are bright and clear
And I thank my lucky stars each day
That the government sent me here.

I used to be mean as a hornet crab
Till I'd swallowed that morning drink,
But now I'm wearing the Olive Drab
I'm blithe as a bobolink.
For the fresh air thrills through my throat and chest
And I just want to shout and roar,
And life has a flavor, a zip, a zest
That I never have known before.

I used to be flabby and soft and white
When I sat at a desk in town,
But since I've been learning the way to fight
I'm husky and hard and brown.
It took a cocktail to make me eat
The choicest of food, but now
You watch me march to a mess-shack
And wade through an army chow.

So I smile a sort of shame-faced smile
When I think how I pled exempt,
And I'm glad that the board saw through my guile
In "Camp and Trench" Songs of the Fighting Forces," by Bertin Braley.

SPOILED HIS LITTLE TRICK

Well for Americans That Texan Had Properly Sized Up Treacherous Boche Prisoner.

They had taken their first Boche prisoner and were marching back to the rear. He was a German who had been a long time in the United States and he insisted on being sociable.

"Well, boys," he cried, ignoring the grim silence with which they received his jocular remarks on the war, "Have a cigarette all around on me and let's forget all about it."

His hands moved toward his pocket, when

"Hands up!" said a voice behind him, and "Texas," a real cowboy from the Lone Star state, presented an argument sufficiently strong to make him elevate his arms above his head in true "Kaiser" style.

"Search him, boys. I think he's got a grenade in his right hip pocket."

A grenade! Upon investigation, it turned out that he had six concealed about his person. These they judiciously dropped all together into the sack of his trousers.

"Now, boys," said Texas, "run like hell!"

He pulled out the pin of one grenade and took to his heels like a coyote. A mile farther on, somebody picked up a bit of bonfire and offered it to anyone who wanted a souvenir of their first Boche prisoner.—From a Red Cross Scrap Book.

PROVING IT.

People nowadays don't know how to raise children. They let the youngsters have their own way too much.

That's right. Now, look at these chicks of mine. They wouldn't have amounted to anything if they hadn't been set upon.

"Alex the Great" on Passport.

Among the countless passport stories now current in Europe one is told by the newspaper Noyv Kurier of Cracow, Austria. A Polish princess wanted to cross the frontier from Russia into Poland with her son. The Polish authorities refused her a passport and claimed the son for military service. With much trouble and a liberal use of money, she obtained a bogus passport, an important looking document bearing many seals and signatures, one of them being that of "Alexander the Great, king of Macedonia." It secured her a safe passage and has now found a place in her family archives.

Spanish Language.

Probably the most promising field in the world for trade expansion is South America, where the Germans had obtained a footing before the war came and their shipping was driven off the seas. The United States should obtain a portion of that trade, and in order that young men may be qualified to take part in it, the teaching of the Spanish language in the high schools is recommended. Spanish is the language of all the countries of South America, except Brazil, where the Portuguese language is used.

Double Efficiency.

"Do you think women will vote?" "They'll do more than that," replied Mr. Meeklen. "Everyone of them is addition to voting herself will tell some man how to vote."

Opportunity.

Friend—What did you operate on that rich man for? He didn't need it. Doctor—I know he didn't, but I had to have something to get a liberty bond with, didn't I?

Nobody Can Afford to Fail.

Nobody can afford to fail in his business now if his business is worthy of success. The condition of the world demands accomplishment these days.

Grooming the Ways.

Said the newspaper: "You can groom the ways for success, but the only way to get it is to groom the ways."

SEEMED TO COME TO THEM

new of Our "U" Boat Chaser Skippers Had Had Previous Naval Experience.

"Where do the officers of the submarine chasers come from?" I asked an executive officer from the navy, writer Samuel G. Britton in the Saturday Evening Post.

"Everywhere," he said. "Where they came from?"

"Not many of them were had had experience in motor boats and yachts and were amateur navigators, but the way they have picked it up is marvellous. Let me give you an illustration. When I was organizing the first flotilla that came over I questioned the young chasers who came before me as officers for the chasers. Of the first five on one day one had been a ship salesman, another an accountant, another a nut inspector and another an actor."

"Not important," I said. "What's that?"

"He worked on a steam launch down south somewhere."

FEW SHIPS ARE TOTAL LOSS

Vessels Sunk by Mines or Torpedoes Patched, Raised and Taken to Port for Repairs.

Any one who imagines that all the vessels sunk by enemy torpedoes and mines are left at the bottom of the sea would be surprised if he could be told the whole story of shipwrecks, rescues and uneventful trail of the British admiralty salvage corps.

Almost as soon as a vessel is sunk salvage operations are commenced. Divers are sent down to take accurate measurements of the size of the hole made by the torpedo or mine. Small holes are plugged with wood, but large ones are patched with "standard" patches. These are made of 12-inch wooden beams, and a patch sometimes weighs as much as 20 tons.

As may be imagined, the size of the hole varies greatly. In some cases it has measured 40 feet long by 20 feet wide, and in one case it has been known to be 48 feet long by 25 feet wide.

When the vessels have been patched and patched, their cargo removed and the water pumped out of them they are towed to the nearest port where they can be permanently repaired.

Several vessels have been torpedoed after being patched and have again been successfully raised and taken into port.

Miracle in the Mediterranean.

In an article on the submarine warfare in the Mediterranean contributed to the November Century, Herman Whitaker tells of a job on one of the American destroyers who had been washed overboard in a black night storm and was thought to be long dead, but till a voice hailed the match from under the stern. He had caught the line, which trails for a couple of hundred feet behind, and hauled himself along it. Another escape was still more marvellous. Washed overboard at night from one of the destroyers, this particular lad was heaved by a wave upon the deck of another vessel half a mile away. When he was restored to his own ship at the end of the voyage, his captain thus addressed him: "Thank you, you have saved up all the luck you will have in all your life. The sea is no safe place for you. Take my advice, get out of it as soon as Uncle Sam will let you."

Gave Revenue Officers Tip.

Revenue officers who arrested an American man with fifteen gallons of whiskey in his motor car, found he had a letter from a Greek farmer, saying that the writer had "some very fine sheep for sale at the low price of 47 cents," and that "the man had a letter of authority," a remarkable thing in the animal world. On investigation, they found the man to be a complete swindler, and the letter to be a thingy-jug of high-powered nonsense which

THE RAILROAD PROBLEM.

The President's discussion of the problem of the railroads, in his address to Congress, was admirably frank in not pretending to offer any real solution, yet illuminating in its statement of conditions and helpful suggestions. It leaves the matter where it ought to be left, in the hands of Congress for discussion and attempted solution, but it emphasizes the fact clearly seen by every reflecting mind that, whether government ownership or private ownership shall be the final decision, it will be impossible ever to go back to the old methods. Temporary government control for war time and reconstruction has served and is serving the desired purpose, as is pretty generally agreed, but this temporary government control has also made it clear that in order to give proper service and pay costs the railroads must receive adequate revenue.

Some of the difficulties of the old system are indicated by the president when he says that the railroads were unequal to the immense tasks of transportation "because their full cooperation was rendered impossible to assign to them severally the traffic which could best be carried by their respective lines in the interest of expedition and national economy." In reply to his own question, what shall be done with the railroads, the president frankly admits that he has no answer ready, but submits that an early answer is desirable in the interest both of the public and the owners, and he expresses the hope that Congress will have a complete and impartial study of the whole problem initiated at once and put it forward as rapidly as possible.

The president mentions three alternative courses that may be considered: "We can simply release the roads and go back to the old conditions of private management, unrestricted competition and multi-form regulation by both State and Federal authorities; or we can go to the opposite extreme and establish complete government control, accompanied if necessary by actual government ownership; or we can adopt an intermediate course of modified private control, under a more unified and affirmative public regulation and under such alterations of the law as will permit wasteful competition to be avoided and a considerable degree of unification of administration to be effected, as, for example, by regional corporations under which the railroads of definable areas would be in effect combined in single systems." It is to be hoped that no "politics" either of labor, of capital or of party organization will tend to prevent a calm, judicial and expert study, discussion and solution of so vastly important a problem.

INTOLERANCE.

The outcry raised and the official action taken in Avalon, Cal., because some young men were seen playing a game of cards in a place of business furnish an illuminating reminder of the widening scope of intolerance in this country and the continuing reversion toward the old Puritan blue-law type of summary legislation so out of harmony with the true spirit of free American institutions.

Already the manufacture of spirituous liquors is gone, the cigarette so beloved of our brave soldiers is going, and the abolition of tobacco in all its forms will follow. Then the citizens' right to tea and coffee will be eternally questioned, some reformers already holding that both are deadly. Card playing of all sorts must be stopped; innocent amusements of every kind must be checked; what the citizen eats and what he drinks must be minutely observed—in order that the intolerant and joyless ascetic may plume himself on his ability to shackle and regulate his neighbor.

It is not clear from Mr. Hoover's announcement whether or not he expects Germans in the 200,000,000 hungry who must be fed. If it can be shown that the Germans are really in pressing need of help and that to feed them as well as their victims in the territories they invaded and terrorized is necessary for the good of all Europe, the average American can be induced to co-operate. He will not do it gladly or graciously, he will grudge every ounce of food he saves for Germany; but he will do it. Before he will consent to begin, however, he must be "shown."

Being now reduced to a sixth-rate naval power, Germany will show less interest in "the freedom of the seas"—Ly which euphemism, as some of her retired statesmen have confessed, was meant German "domination" of the seas.

It would pay to include human talking machines, among those that are to be taxed, and not merely because of their great numbers.

"Isn't the company here rather mixed?" The Hostess—"Yes, but they don't mind if you don't."—Life.

"That young man you introduced to me seems to lack opinions on most subjects." "I know, but he makes up for it in his opinion of himself."—Boston Transcript.

Average Father (showing his prodigy's drawings)—"Would you believe that he never took a lesson in his life?" Art Editor—"Seeing as believing?"—Buffalo Express.

Semmie—"I asked one of the French soldiers what fail was in French." Tommie—"What did he say?" "He said there was no such word as fail in French."—Yonkers Statesman.

"Every man likes to hear the sound of his own voice." "That fact," remarked Senator Borah, "is what makes baseball a beneficial institution. A man can vociferate all he likes without in the slightest degree committing himself to any political opinion."—Washington Star.

Changed to Head of List.

A story is told of an old negro who had accumulated his savings in a bank in one of the Southern towns says the Columbus Dispatch. One day the bank failed.

Zeno was the name of the old man and when told the bank had failed he spent hours around the door, as if he hoped in that way to get his money.

One day the receiver said to him, "Don't you know that the bank has failed?" "I know," he said, "but I can't get my money." "This is not the first bank that has failed," the receiver said.

"Shure, Ah knows dat," Zeno answered. "Ah heered tell of banks bustin' before dis, but dis head am de first time dat a bank bust bust right squah in mah face."

At last the examinations were over and the receiver announced that the debtors would be paid in alphabetical order. Some mistake had been made in listing, and when they got down to Zeno, no money gave out and Zeno lost his savings.

But he didn't lose all his courage. He saved for a year or more and had a little money in a new bank. He went to the cashier, who said, "All right, Zeno, we will be glad to open an account for you."

"Zeno, what's your name?" "Mah name am Zeno no mah mah name's Aaron."

Ulster County Men Were Prominent.
According to the New York newspapers, Kingston and Ulster county loomed large in the celebration of Great Britain day. Judge Parker presided at the great mass meeting at the Hippodrome on Sunday afternoon. At the dinner of the St. Nicholas Society at Delmonico's on Friday evening, Judge Clearwater was the host of the aides of the British, French, Italian and Belgian general and admirals, who are visiting this country, and on Saturday evening he was a member of the committee at the Century Club which gave a reception to the Chancellors of the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, Glasgow and Manchester, all of whom are visiting the United States as members of the British Universities Mission.

Hunter's Secret of Success.

As a hunter the native Australian is marvellously adjusted to the environment. His success lies in an intimate knowledge of the habits of animals on land, in the ground, in trees and under water, and his wonderfully developed powers of observation. He detects poisons by imitating their cries, catches ducks by diving below them, catches an opossum in a tree by marking on the bark or by the flight of mosquitoes, finds snakes by the action of birds, and follows a deer to its store for honey.

Shun Headlines.

The newspaper chase after sensationalism or material gain often leads to the reader's contempt, and the cold perhaps unintentional, slight, frustration or indifference, though thoughtless, selfish wounds still further an already sore and bleeding soul whose glowing and glowing spirit might have, with a sympathetic glance, a smile of approval, or a welcoming gesture, been set all afire the journey to be pursued along—Great Thoroughfare.

THREE NOTED FRENCH TOWNS

Will Live in History as Having Given Their Names to Articles of Everyday Commerce.

Three towns in northern France have given their names to articles of everyday commerce—Cambrai, from which "cambrie" is derived; Arras, a term applied to a certain kind of tapestry, and Valenciennes, noted for its lace in older times. Cambrai, too, is associated with the name of the great French ecclesiastic and moralist, Francois Fenelon, a statue of whom stood in the cathedral before the Germans captured the town. Fenelon wrote one of the most famous novels of the eighteenth century: "The Adventures of Telemachus," an account of the son of Ulysses. At Cambrai was concluded a very curious treaty, the so-called "Ladies' Peace," between Louis of Savoy and Margaret of Austria, representing France and Austria, respectively, in 1529. At Arras was born the celebrated leader of the French Revolution, Maximilian Robespierre, who organized the Reign of Terror by which he himself was finally to fall. Valenciennes no longer made the beautiful lace which its name suggests, but was a center for the manufacture of hosiery, trappings, and handkerchiefs. It was the birthplace of two famous men—Watteau, whose paintings are regarded as perhaps the most characteristic products of French art in the eighteenth century, and Froissant, whose chronicles of the wars of the Middle Ages are full of movement and color. Near by is another famous town—Douai—whose name is joined with a veridical English of the Bible prepared for the special use of the Catholic church.

Grand Army Button.

The Grand Army of the Republic bronze button, worn by members on the left lapel of the coat, was adopted as the result of a motion made at Minneapolis in 1884 by Chas. W. Hazard of Pennsylvania, that the council of administration of the G. A. R. be directed to adopt a design for such a button. The design was formally adopted by the council and later approved by the national encampment.

Growing the Ways.

Said the seagulls: "You can cut this path please about three inches below necessity for seagulls, but the only tongue has got it beat a thousand ways."

—have you ever tried making Mayonnaise this way—Mazola gives it a delicious tang

MANY women who are famous for their salad dressings prefer Mazola to olive oil.

Mazola is easier to mix. Mayonnaise made with it does not separate so easily, and at the same time it has a wonderful savoriness impossible to duplicate with any other oil.

In making cakes, pastries, doughnuts and fried foods Mazola also gives perfect results.

And it is wonderfully economical—can be used over and over, to the very last drop, as Mazola never carries taste or odor from one food to another.

Get Mazola from your grocer, in pint, quart or gallon tins. Large sizes most economical.

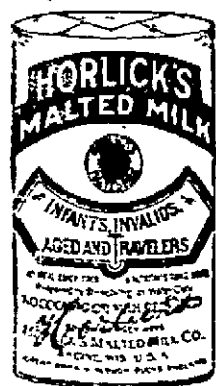

Also ask for the Mazola Book of Recipes or write us direct—free on request.

NITRO POWDER PLANT TO CLOSE

Monday afternoon the three hundred employees at the Nitro Powder plant at Mingo Hollow were served with a notice that the plant would close down on December 15. The plant was busy working on war orders which have been filled. Just how long the plant will remain closed is not known.

BEANS OF VARIOUS KINDS.

The soy bean has, up to a recent time, been grown in America only for the purpose of stock food, but the scarcity of other beans has brought out the value of the bean as a food for the human family.

The soy bean contains nearly twice as much protein as meat and may be used as a substitute for it, as well as for other beans.

They are unlike the navy bean as to starchy content, containing very little which makes them a valuable food for diabetics. The starch may be supplied by flour or cornstarch, making them more nearly like the ordinary navy bean.

Soy beans are of several colors, black, green, brown or yellow. They are good cooked in many ways, but must be soaked twelve hours before cooking, then simmer until tender. When baking them the addition of a little flour to supply the starch makes them more palatable.

Baked Soy Beans.—Take one and one-half cups of yellow soy beans, soak twelve hours, then put into a baking dish with a small onion, a piece of pork weighing a fourth of a pound, a fourth of a teaspoonful of mustard and two tablespoonfuls of molasses. Cover with cold water mixed with two tablespoonfuls of flour, put on the lid of the bean pot and place in the oven to bake all day. Add more water if needed. A half a cupful of navy beans may be used with the soy beans; if so, omit the flour.

Cream Soy Bean Soup.—Take a cupful of green soy beans, soak twelve hours, then cook in water four hours, or until tender. Rub through a sieve. Brown a chopped onion in a little butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with two tablespoonfuls of butter, to the bean pulp; add a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne and an eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper, with a quart of milk. Let simmer for ten minutes, stirring occasionally, and serve.

Black Soy Bean Soup.—This soup is prepared as above, using onion, celery, a lemon rind and juice, mustard and pepper, with two quarts of water. The beans may be cut in slices and used as a garnish if preferred.

ULSTER FOLKS SEEK DIVORCE

The relations of Marion Sheeley with one "Hambone" Smith in Maybrook during the spring and summer of this year were the subject of testimony in supreme court in Newburgh on Saturday. Marion's husband, Daniel A. Sheeley of Ellenville, having sued for absolute divorce. The couple were married in the bride's home in Ellenville on March 7, 1908, and have a daughter, Evelyn Myra Sheeley, 8 years old, who is now with the mother, but possession of whom the testimony of Mrs. Julia Minter, the defendant's witness, husband in Maybrook last April, and made a confession to that effect to the injured wife. No defense was offered. An interlocutory decree will be granted.

An elopement and an arrest figured in the divorce suit of Alice Decker versus Jackson Decker, also tried before Judge Seeger on Saturday. The parties were married in the Walden M. E. Church on September 26, 1911, and have no children. The plaintiff, now lives in Lloyd, and the defendant in Walden. According to the testimony Decker and the wife of Irving Berger of Napanoch "ran away" together in March, 1917, going to the home of Decker's mother, Mrs. Sarah Donnelly, in Winterport. There Decker was arrested on Berger's complaint on March 25. No defense was offered and a decree will be granted. Earl H. Houschaling represented plaintiff in both actions.

Ukraine Region.
Ukraine is from the Russian and Polish "Ukraina," meaning the frontier, which includes the extensive frontier region between Poland and Russia, forming the districts of Kiev, Chernigov, Podolsk, Kharkef and Poltava. The region is watered by the Dnieper, which intersects it in a winding course from north to south. Black soil overlies the Ukraine territory, which produces two-thirds of all the cereals grown in the whole of Russia. The Ukraine takes leading rank in most other natural resources of Russia.

Lightning Calculation.
An eminent electrician has figured out the consequences of a lightning flash. The amount of light given by a single lightning flash is sufficient to illuminate an area two miles square with an average illumination of one candle. To produce such an illumination, he estimates, the expenditure of 15,000 horse power for one second would be required.

TROCO

Made from Coconuts and Milk
By an Exclusive Process
In the Country

The appetizing ingredients from which Troco is made are Nature's choicest foods. Our special process converts them into a de luxe product perfect in flavor and texture.

The Troco plant is in the heart of New York's dairy country, situated in a little town in the Berkshire foothills where it is the only industry. Isn't this more attractive than a smoky city factory?

The Successor to Butter

These special features make Troco the choice of fastidious users, who prefer it to all other products regardless of cost or prestige.

But—while price is a secondary consideration, every pound of Troco saves from 25 to 40 cents. A welcome economy in times like these.

Make your pancakes the Aunt Jemima way. There's no mixing for you to do—and they cost but a few cents

How to make delicious pancakes economically

DON'T make pancakes the old-fashioned way—it's too expensive. Make Aunt Jemima Pancakes and save the cost of milk and eggs!

With Aunt Jemima you add nothing but water—everything else is in the flour. That's why an Aunt Jemima breakfast for your whole family costs only a few cents.

Even the milk is in Aunt Jemima flour

Knowing that sweet milk gives pancakes a more delicious flavor, the Aunt Jemima people have gone to a great deal of trouble to add it to the flour. Now the flour is absolutely complete! Think of all the extra expense you save—especially now that milk has gone up so!

And what a delicious flavor the milk gives these cakes! So rich—so delectably smooth and enticing! Your husband will say he could eat a dozen!

Give your family Aunt Jemima Pancakes tomorrow. See how speedily they will vote them their favorite breakfast! Then, for variety, get Aunt Jemima Buckwheat Flour—it's in the yellow package. Aunt Jemima Mills Company, St. Joseph, Missouri.

PRIVATE WOLF WOUNDED IN FRANCE

Private Andrew Wolf, Company 1, 195th Infantry, has been seriously wounded in action in France on September 29, according to word received Monday evening by his mother, Mrs. John Wolf of Abel street, from the war department. Private Wolf left Kingston in June of 1917, with Company 1, 1st N. Y. N. G., the whistlers, and was later transferred to the 195th. He had been in France for some time. He has a host of friends who hope for his recovery.

HASTENED JOB FOR MINISTER

Youth Couldn't See Any Four Years' Courtship if He Had to Visit Girl on Horseback.

Cupid's wings were slightly scorched when the request went forth to leave our automobiles in our garages on Sunday and thus aid in saving fuel, says the Indianapolis News. But a youth in Sullivan county—quite loyal to his country and his sweetheart, too—remembered the days of his father and acted accordingly. When 7 o'clock came he went to the family barn, ignored the presence of his new roadster, took down his father's ancient saddle, put it on one of the plow horses and gallantly rode forth.

But not far did he ride. Either the horse unaccustomed to a rider or the youth to riding did something which irritated the other, for soon the youth was prone in the road and the horse was galloping toward home.

After a while the young man got up from his prostrate position. Dazedly he looked around him. Then he talked to himself: "My father," he said, "asserted that that saddle took him to court mother weekly for more than four years. Well, for myself, I'll say there was something radically wrong with father. If I had to ride on that saddle four years to see Nellie—well, never mind, I'll propose tonight."

He did and Cupid chalked up one against Mr. Garfield.

FLED FROM ARMORED CARS

Bedouins in Wild Confusion When the British Forces Made Use of "Tanks" in Desert.

The appearance of armored cars in the desert struck terror in Semite hearts, and the whole country was soon covered with men and camels trekking off to the southwest. On getting through the camp the cars went on independently, shooting all loaded camels and men within reach. Two of these camels carried mixed loads of petrol and high explosive shell. The perforated petrol cans caught fire, and the shells exploded, which made the camp followers fall on their knees, beat the ground with their foreheads, and call on Allah's aid.

"The Turkish runners stuck to their guns like good men. When we passed them without killing them they turned round and continued firing at us, so that we had to go back and finish them," one of the officers told me. The cars collected three mountain guns and one machine gun with a quarter million rounds of small-arm ammunition and several boxes of shell. Two of the cars stood by all night to protect the campfire, and the remainder retraced their tracks to Sidi Barrani, to find our infantry in occupation. The Semites did not venture on Alexandria again. —From "The Desert Campaigns," by W. T. Massing.

Diamond Not Most Valuable

It is a popular error to suppose that the diamond is the most valuable of the precious stones. The relative value of the four gems places the ruby at the head of the list; the diamond second, and following this the sapphire. It is a very common occurrence to find a perfect clear red ruby of a fine color.

Our Wonderful Language.

A certain incident took place, leading to his only son the conduct of his extensive business, and even doubt was expressed in some quarters whether the young man possessed the ability to carry out the father's policies. "Well," said one kindly disposed friend, "for my part, I think Henry is very bright and capable. I'm sure he will succeed."

Friendships Good and Bad.

There are three friendships which are advantageous: Friendship with the upright, with the sincere, and with the man of much education. Friendship with a man of special ability, with the tactfully soft, and with the gallant, these are injuries.

Buoyed by German Faith.

When a world came this; how unendurable its weight, if they were death had embraced did not need again—Sautage.

Ancients Get Undeserved Credit.

Asphodelus, extracted from the fountain of life on the banks of the Euphrates, was used in building the walls of Babylon. Much of the talk about the skill of the ancients and their lost arts is all a myth. They should be given full credit for what they did, but such credit as those of Babylon and such sciences as the Pyramids could be built for more easily and quickly at the present time. Now, however, people are more important work to do, and more things to achieve.

First Senate Chaplain.

The first chaplain of the United States senate was Rev. Samuel Francis Johnson, D. D., of New York. The first chaplain of the House of Representatives was Rev. John L. O'Sullivan, D. D., of New York. Both officiated at the first session of the senate and the house respectively after the adoption of the constitution.

Mexican Sacrificial Stone.

The sacrificial stone was the stone on which human victims were sacrificed, before the war and Huastecan. In the principal Aztec temple in Mexico it was dug up near the site of the temple in 1791, and is now in the Mexican national museum. The stone is dark shaped, 8 1/2 feet in diameter and 2 1/2 feet thick. The sides are covered with elaborate sculptures.

Very Sound Advice.

Two men had argued about politics until at length they had come to blows. "Sit," said one with dignity, "you have called me a knave and a fool, you have broken my spectacles, you have pinched me twice. I hope you will not cause the sleeping time in my breast, for if you should, I can not tell what may be the consequences."

PAY WAR CHEST PLEDGES AT Y

Mayor Canfield, Chairman of the War Chest, announced this morning, that Harry P. Dodge, secretary of the War Chest, will be permanently in charge of War Chest headquarters. The headquarters are temporarily located at the Y. M. C. A. where the payments due December 1 may be made. The location of the permanent headquarters will be announced shortly.

Two branch offices for the receipt of War Chest payments have been opened, the office up-town is in the office of the Rose-Gorman-Rose store. The office down-town is located in Schatzel's confectionery store on the Strand.

Payments in the town are being handled through township captains, Sargenties, Wawarsing and Lloyd report that pledges are being paid with exceptional promptness.

It is hoped that all payments due December 1 will be made in the very near future, since a considerable part of Ulster county quota for the United War Work Campaign must be paid at once.

Music the Word of Germany.
Music is the word of Germany. The German people, so much curbed as a nation, so emancipated as thinkers, sing with a somber delight. To sing, seems a deliverance from bondage. Music expresses that which cannot be said, and which cannot be suppressed. Therefore is Germany all music in anticipation of the times when she shall be all freedom.—Victor Hugo.

Mrs. Lena Van Aken of Kingston is visiting Mrs. James C. Van Vliet on Pine street.

A special meeting of the Dorcas Society will be held in the Sunday school of the Reformed Church Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. All are urged to be present.

Little Miss Dorothy E. Van Gaasbeek, who has been the guest of her aunt, Miss Mildred Short, on Broadway for a few days, returned to her home in Kingston Monday.

Mrs. Martha Neal and her son, John Neal, of Salem street were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith in Kingston Sunday.

A business meeting and social of the Epworth League Society will be held this evening in the Methodist Chapel.

Mrs. Rufus Lefever of Brooklyn is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Neher, on Bayard street.

The Port Ewen Auxiliary of the Red Cross will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. A. H. Schryver on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

KEEP COOL AND KEEP WELL

Some Points of Importance to Be Remembered When an Epidemic is Threatening Public Health.

At its worst any epidemic takes but a relatively small toll of the population, and as a rule the majority of people are resistant to the assaults of the worst disease germs, including influenza. If they but take ordinary care of themselves. This is important. Whatever medical science may advise as to prevention or as to treatment, one simple fact that outweighs everything else is that if every individual will but follow the normal life he has led, and those things that are suited to his system, things he has always eaten with resulting good health, rest and sleep as usual and avoid overfatigue while carrying on his work, also as usual, he will escape the pestilence. There is no excuse for any panic. Above all, the individual should remember that the first and last rule to follow in this state of things is to keep cool and keep well. For the man who will keep cool will keep well, and the man who keeps well and has all his faculties about him will keep cool. This is no time for official or individual or collective hysteria.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Extravagance.

It makes no difference who administers the extravagance or how high the purpose is, extravagance is an evil in itself. There is something in the very fact that invites venality and corruption. The very sight of a great pile of money excites desire that too often finds some way for satisfying itself. The papers are full of instances of this kind. In fact, we could write a pretty good history of the country if we limited our narrative to graft and grabbing only, and yet much of it is overlooked because it is usual and expected. Extravagance has made many an unearned fortune and it is doing as much these days, especially in government contracts. This country should hasten to apply the doctrine that an overcharge is a crime and that profiteering is treason. There is nothing that so destroys the democratic level of a nation, whether it appears on the heights or in the depths.—Ohio State Journal.

Strike That Failed.

Labor strikes were frequent even in the earliest recorded days. An important strike occurred in Egypt during the reign of Cheops, several thousand years before the Christian era. While the great pyramid erected in honor of that monarch was in course of construction it is stated that 50,000 workmen refused to continue their labors. They were dissatisfied with the food furnished to them, which was insufficient in quantity and poor in quality. Argument proving useless on the part of the contractors, soldiers were ordered to drive the strikers back to work, and many thousands of them were cut in places, while those who could escape fled. The others were compelled to resume their labor.

Aerial Compasses.

Many difficulties had to be overcome in the production of a satisfactory compass for aerial work. Chief among these was that of neutralizing the magnetism of the engine (and in particular the magneto) and of preventing the effect of centrifugal force, which caused the card or dial inside the compass to swing in a direction quite independent of north when the airplane was banking on a turn. However, a truly excellent compass is now in use.

The Farmer Receives More Than Five Thousand Dollars a Minute From Swift & Company

This amount is paid to the farmer for live stock, by Swift & Company alone, during the trading hours of every business day.

All this money is paid to the farmer through the open market in competition with large and small packers, shippers, speculators and dealers.

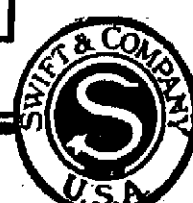

The farmer, feeder, or shipper receives every cent of this money ($300,000 an hour, nearly $2,000,000 a day, $11,500,000 a week) in cash, on the spot, as soon as the stock he has just sold is weighed up.

Some of the money paid to the farmer during a single day comes back to the company in a month from sale of products; much does not come back for sixty or ninety days or more. But the next day Swift & Company, to meet the demands made by its customers, must pay out another $2,000,000 or so, and at the present high price levels keeps over $250,000,000 continuously tied up in goods on the way to market and in bills owed to the company.

This gives an idea of the volume of the Swift & Company business, and the requirements of financing it. Only by doing a large business can this company turn live stock into meat and by-products at the lowest possible cost, prevent waste, operate refrigerator cars, distribute to retailers in all parts of the country—and be recompensed with a profit of only a fraction of a cent a pound—a profit too small to have any noticeable effect on the price of meat or live stock.

Acres of Bananas.
In India and the Malay peninsula the produce from one acre of bananas—or plantains, as the fruit is termed in that region—will support a much greater number of people than a similar area under any other crop. Plantain meal is made by stripping off the husk, slicing the core, drying it in the sun and then reducing it to powder, and finally sifting. It is calculated that the fresh core will give 40 per cent of meal, and that an acre of average quality will yield over a ton.

"WAKE" IS OLD INSTITUTION

Custom Most Prevalent Today in Ireland Well Known to the Egyptians, Greeks and Romans.

"The custom of 'waking' the dead, with the drinking, smoking and conversation of the large company of neighbors who assemble in the house of mourning, appears incongruous and repulsive to those who are unacquainted with its remote origin or the kindly and humane motives which underlie it," says Michael Macdonough, in the English Review. "The wake is a very old institution. It existed among the Egyptians, the Greeks and the Romans, Shakespeare and Scott give instances of medieval revivals in honor of the dead. The custom survives in a different form, but with somewhat identical motives, among the Irish, almost alone of the ancient peoples.

"Waking" means, for one thing, 'watching.' The English way of leaving the body shut up in a room, all alone, would be most repulsive to the Irish nature. It would be regarded as desertion. The Irish keep close company with their dead until the very last moment of the burial.

"The body is clothed in a shroud made in imitation of the habits worn by certain orders of friars and in the hands, crossed reverently on the breast, is placed a crucifix. The walls near the bed are hung with clean white sheets on which are pinned bunches of flowers, laurel leaves and holy pictures. Lighted candles, seven in number, are on the table. They are symbolic of hopes and aspirations relating to the dead. That he or she has been blessed of the seven deadly sins, possessed the seven gifts of wisdom, understanding, counsel, fortitude, knowledge, piety and fear of the Lord, and the seven principal virtues.

"First entering the room where the body lies the visitors kneel and say a prayer for the eternal salvation of the departed soul. Afterward in the kitchen, snuff, pipes and tobacco, whisky and stout are served to the company. The dead person is in his house for the last time, and, as best for the last time, dispenses hospitality.

"Memories of his kindness and good nature are revived by the neighbors. 'Tis he that had the bright smile and cheery laugh whenever you met him, and no matter what you might want of him, sure you had only to say the word to get it with a heart and a hand.'

He Got a Seat.

Speaking of stowed away reminds one of the latest—the very latest—thing in according heard on a local function line.

This was sprung on an unsuspecting world the other night—morning, rather—about three o'clock.

The speaker told about it to his of-fee mates the next morning as follows:

"I'm so used to standing up in the street car that I don't know how to sit down any more, actually," he said. "I had more rest standing up than sitting down. We always like that we were accustomed to, of course—sort of force of habit; strong thing, you know, as all our well-known psychologists agree.

"The other afternoon I stood up for two miles, and finally a lady got out, and a motherly looking woman said to me, 'Here's a seat,' and I said, 'It's a pretty seat, all right.'

"But that night I started to tell you about—believe me, boys, if you want to get a seat on a Washington street car go home at three o'clock in the morning. It is pretty late, I'll admit, but the lateness of the hour has its compensation.

"I got on, and there wasn't anybody else on the car, but I got a seat, boys! I got a seat!"—Washington Star.

Meat Is Scarce.

Patrick J. Kennedy and Thomas Carr, farmers of Templeton, Ind., came to Indianapolis with three carloads of hogs and cattle, and after waiting all day at the stock yards were told that there was no demand for them, says the Indianapolis News. The price on hogs fell off from $17.50 to $17.10 while they were at the yards and finally they had to sell 12 of the choicest hogs from one car at $17. They were told that these hogs were too fat. The razor-backs, comparatively speaking, brought $17.10. The cattle could not be sold.

After this experience the two went to a stock yards restaurant nearby and ordered steak. It was Tuesday and, therefore, a meatless day.

"We can't buy beef or pork," said the waitress. "All we have for you is fish and oysters. Meat is very scarce, you know."

"Yes, we know," said Kennedy, as he gave in and bought a substitute.

Businesslike and Efficient.

It is considered worthy of notice in the papers that a woman has "held down" a job as agent at a railroad station somewhere in the West and that a woman was agent at a Maine station for a few weeks. People must have lost a memory not to recall that the agent of the important Grand Trunk station at Lewiston a dozen years ago was a woman, who held the job for some time. And the writer can testify that she was businesslike and efficient, for she once told him waiting at the ticket window for him minutes by the look which she divided the job she was doing on the books.—Standard (Me.) Journal.

Adding to It.

"I got out one too pretty a nurse for this sort."

"The patient already has possession of the nurse,"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Periwinkles Cultivated.

Along the coast of Brittany periwinkles are grown for market in shallow water, in beds strewed with bones and covered with wire net. The beds are filled and emptied by the tides, which bring abundant food. When the tides are out the mollusks are left enough to be harvested, a fair yield being ten tons to the acre.

On the Second Chapter of Food Administration Activity

"The housewives of America did the job and they did it well. Our public eating places were loyal to their pledges. Our merchants with a few exceptions lived up to the best traditions of Americans harnessed for a mighty task. It was more than a human task, and this country of ours never for a moment lost sight of the importance of food to the victory.

"Yesterday we cheerfully surrendered our appetites for the common good of all joined together for a single purpose,—the burial of militarism and the building on its ruins of the new civilization; today we are called on to give still another proof of the sincerity of our intentions. We are asked to feed the world in order that the world may be saved.

"We can do it. Who says America will not do it? It can only be done by continued self-denial. The pledge has been made. Hoover has said the word: the desolated countries will be sent 20,000,000 tons of foodstuffs. Starvation is not to be permitted to stay the progress of the new civilization.

"We must hold the light steady until they find themselves. These are the words of a leadership which has God behind it. There is no mistaking the meaning of these words. The light of true freedom must not only be seen by the liberated peoples and by those of the enemy; it must be held in the grasp of a civilization that cannot be shaken by the spectacle of any kind of disorder, caused either by famine or anarchy.

"Simple living for a few months will do it. Let there be no whiners in our midst as we start the new and final chapter of Food Administration work. While the leaders of the nation hold the light steady let us send the ships across laden with the fruits of our sacrifice.

"Food Will Win The World for everything our men have fought and died for. It will keep Old Glory waving above the emblems of disaster.

MUST SHIP MORE MEAT TO EUROPE

Only Way in Which Depleted
Animal Herds Can Be Restored.
Dr. Kellogg Points Out.

Larger importations of meat and pork products from the United States, thus lessening the slaughtering of native animals, will be the most effective means of restoring the depleted animal herds of the United Kingdom, France and Italy. This is the information just received from Dr. Vernon Kellogg of the United States Food Administration, now in France on official business. Dr. Kellogg declares that the losses in cattle in France and Italy are especially serious, not only on account of the meat and milk ordinarily obtained from this source, but also on account of the loss of the services of cattle, through depletion, which are used as work animals on farms in both countries. Dr. Kellogg writes:

"The most recent statistics on animal herds, indicating the number now existing in Allied countries, show a loss of cattle in France of seventeen per cent; in Italy, of fourteen per cent, with the United Kingdom showing no loss; sheep and goats, France, forty one per cent; Italy, one per cent; United Kingdom, ten per cent; pigs, France, forty-nine per cent; Italy, twelve and one-half per cent; United Kingdom, twenty-five per cent; horses and mules, France, thirty-seven and one-half per cent; Italy, twenty-five per cent; United Kingdom, not including animals not included in current survey, four and one-half per cent.

"The losses in cattle in France and Italy are not only serious on account of the meat involved, but are especially serious on account of milk and also of work, as cattle are used largely in both countries as work animals on the farms. It is highly important that the herds be restored as rapidly as possible, which can be done most effectively by larger importations of meat and pork products from America to lessen the slaughtering of native animals.

The French and Italian people are being helped from formerly occupied territories are demanding and needing increased amounts of food over the former deficit nations in order to restore health and strength so as to be able to work, thus making larger demands on imports from America."

Dr. Kellogg, significantly, shows the shortage of butter and sugar in France through his personal experience. "I have now been in France three weeks," he says, "during in restaurants and hotels of all kinds, and I have had butter on the table and a total of six pounds of sugar."

Back Hiccups Are Many.
Because of hiccups, cold and influenza, throughout the different countries, there are only six days out of a year in which hiccups are common in every part of the world at present. People's Health Journal.

COMBINATION MEATS IN PUBLIC EATING PLACES

The Food Administration's conservation order prohibiting public eating places from serving more than one meat course or meat dish at a meal does not apply to such establishments as meat pies, hash and similar articles. The meat rule is aimed at securing conservation without eliminating from the menu certain combinations of scrap meats or varieties of meat by-products, unsuitable for export.

Among the combination meats specifically exempt from the rule are: Liver and bacon, goulash, meat pies, meat cakes, hash, mince pie, harded sweetbreads, club sandwiches and assorted cold meats. In homes as well as in public eating places the use of these meat products in preference to standard large cuts, which are adapted for export, is a direct service to the liberated nations. It will also help America to fulfill her food pledge of 20,000,000 tons to be shipped overseas by July 1, 1919.

OUR LETTER BOX

Replies to food questions, particularly about sugar, from readers of the Bulletin answered by experts of the U. S. Food Administration. Address inquiries to Bulletin, Federal Food Board, 6 West 57th Street, New York City.

J. E. R. (Saugerties)—(a) Having sugar in excessive quantities is injurious. (b) Coughs your family physician.

PAVLOUT (Ohio Falls)—Our soldiers' sugar allowance is six pounds per month. M. H. L. (Greenport)—(a) The condition of the meat (cattle) sugar ration is somewhat very satisfactory. (b) Sugar from this source should reach the market by the first of next year.

STIMULANT (Harris)—The low prices of corn and sugar during the war are the best proof of the effectiveness of price control under the agency of governmental regulation.

THOMAS (Harris)—There should be no hoarding in food during the course of the ending of the war. The United States will be called upon for some months to come to help feed millions of hungry persons in Europe, and by saving food can thus be done.

W. H. S. (Harris)—Between July 1 and Sept. 30 of this year the United States exported 1,943,254,247 pounds of sugar to Europe.

H. W. B. (Harris)—It is no longer necessary to give a ration card for sugar. The ration card will be valid upon the same basis as before, thus making it necessary to keep a record of sugar.

STIMULANT (Harris)—The quantity of sugar should not be limited to two courses per person per meal. There has been no change in this rule. The sugar should be still limited from the table in public eating places.

W. H. S. (Harris)—The United States produced 25,000 short tons of cane sugar and 6,250,000 short tons of beet sugar in 1917.

Significant Hint.
"You say you hesitated when he started to tell you of the meaning of enemies he had killed and captured at the front single handed."
"I never said a single word, but I listened in silence. All I did was to put on my ear mask."
